

Soldiers And Girls Made Available To Help With Harvest

CROPS WILL BE HARVESTED
ALL RIGHT, REPRESENTATIVE THINKS

GIRLS ARE READY

Girls may be called in to help with the harvest in this district, The Era learned from W. M. Cockburn, York county agricultural representative.

Quite a few girls and young women, many of them brought up on farms though now living or teaching in towns or cities, are available for farm work. Others have no experience whatever.

These girls are made available by the Ontario department of labor through the agricultural representative's office. Miss Thompson, a district supervisor, visited Mr. Cockburn this week to inquire into the needs of this district.

"Some farmers are just praying for help," said Mr. Cockburn. "The soldiers' harvest leave will be a real help. Soldiers with farm experience will be allowed four weeks' leave to work on farms.

"I think some of the boys will take the opportunity to come home for some real home cooking," chuckled Mr. Cockburn.

"All crops will be harvested in this district," Mr. Cockburn thought. "The harvest is not as heavy to handle as in some years, and getting started early is a help."

"In addition, there are a few combines being purchased.

"Neglect as a result of labor shortage will be of fencing and other routine summer jobs."

Summer's Big Event Is Next Wednesday

St. John's garden party takes place next Wednesday, July 23, and, with the soldiers in town, is expected to be an even bigger and gayer affair than usual.

St. John's garden party is recognized as the principal event of its kind during the summer months in Newmarket, and is looked forward to annually. A full-course dinner, music, games, booths, all these attractions and a few extras are promised.

ASK HOLIDAY HOMES FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

The following appeal to northern York county people for help in providing holidays for Toronto boys and girls is sent by Miss M. Collier, fresh air work supervisor for the Neighborhood Workers Association.

"An 11-year-old boy was guest; a little five-year-old girl whose daddy is in the army; two small youngsters whose mother is ill; these and many more are entered on the 'urgent' list at the country homes department of the Neighborhood Workers Association, Toronto.

"Sending more than 1,000 children to private homes within a radius of 150 miles from Toronto for a two weeks' vacation is an annual project of the Neighborhood Workers Association. This year, according to F. N. Stapleford, Neighborhood Workers Association, general secretary, the need is just as urgent as ever.

"You can do your bit by writing immediately to the Country Homes Department, Neighborhood Workers Association, 22 Wellesley St., Toronto, stating how many children, what age and sex you prefer, when they will be met, etc., enclosing with your invitation a letter from your local clergyman.

"The children are ready to leave now. Do not delay!"

HAMBLETON REUNION HELD AT KETTLEBY

A reunion of the descendants of Clarkson Hambleton was held on Sunday at the old homestead, Clifton Farm, Kettleby, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Maginn, with relatives attending from London, Galt, Barrie, Courtice, Toronto and Aurora.

The oldest member present was Mrs. Elizabeth Auld of Toronto, 81 years of age, and the youngest, Billie Norris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norris of Barrie, who is four years old.

Good Citizen Lays Down His Tools For Last Time

Funeral services were held this afternoon for John Henry Giles, who died at his home, 76 Prospect Ave., Tuesday morning.

In his 64th year, Mr. Giles went to work as usual on Monday, and worked about his own property on Monday evening. He suffered a heart attack shortly after midnight and died about five hours later.

Born in Queensville, and brought up there, Mr. Giles farmed as a young man at Holt, where he married Alberta Case 38 years ago. He gave up farming to become a motorman and a conductor on the Metropolitan railway, running from Toronto to Sutton, and made his home in Newmarket.

He served with the Metropolitan railway for 13 years, and for the last 13 years had been working for the Office Specialty.

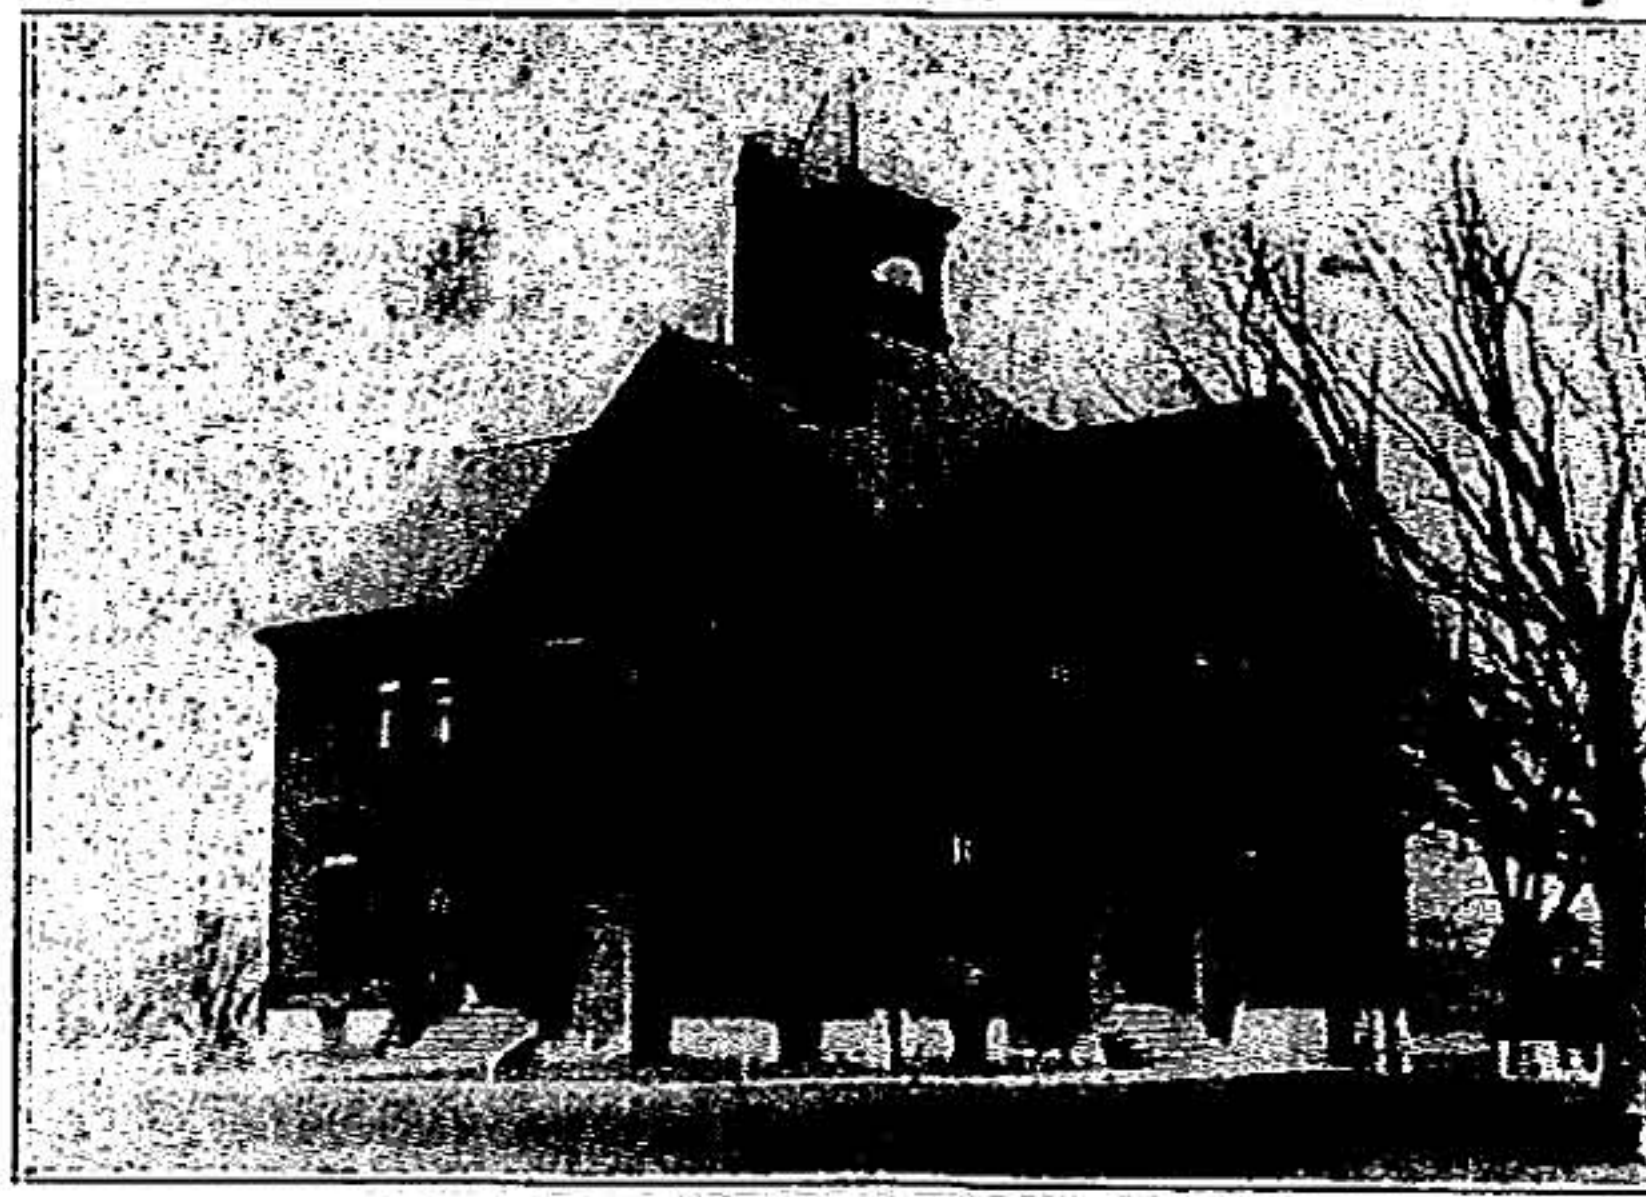

His interests were in his home and his garden, where a weed hadn't a chance, and in town sports. He was a regular attendant at the ball games and hardly ever missed a game. Whenever Cliff (Speedy) Giles played, the father was there too.

Surviving, besides his wife, are a brother, William, Sydenham, four sisters, Mrs. Wm. Menar (Libbie), Newmarket, Mrs. Fred Hancock (Georgina), Bogartown, Mrs. George King (Mabel), Sharon, and Mrs. Seymour Andrews (Nellie), Newmarket, three sons and a daughter, Kenneth, Mrs. Wm. Muirhead (Deane), Cliffton and Jack, all of Newmarket.

Rev. Burton Hill of the Friends church, with which the family is affiliated, conducted the service. Pallbearers were Clarence Case, Newmarket, Walter Case, Mount Albert, Fred Case, Sharon, Frank Case, Mount Albert, Christopher Jones, Sharon, George Pegg, Sharon.

Interment was in Newmarket cemetery.

This is the first outdoor baptismal service in this district brought to the attention of The Era for some considerable time.

NEWMARKET HOME STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

During yesterday's electrical storm, the home of Thos. Leach, Wesley St., was struck, but very little damage was done.

Lightning struck at the home of Mrs. Thos. Alderson, Botsford St., also. Mrs. Alderson was ironing at the time and had just pulled the plug out of the iron, when the lightning hit, apparently following the iron cord down, and coming out the plug. Mrs. Alderson was not injured.

York County THROUGH THE EYES OF J. R. HALE, ORILLIA PACKET AND TIMES.

(About 125 members and friends of the York County Jersey club had their annual outing last Wednesday when a tour was made of some of the outstanding places of interest in the county. The day's program proved a welcome change from the usual picnic and everyone, including several Jersey breeders from Peel county, remarked it was one of the most enjoyable days experienced.

Meeting at Eaton Hall Farm, Evesley, at 9:30 the group was shown through the very fine barns, dairy and greenhouses by the assistant superintendent, Bruce Beer, before driving through the woods to Lady Eaton's gorgeous villa, which overlooks her 45-acre lake and the rest of her 780-acre estate.

The procession of cars then proceeded up the third to Mulock's sliver, stopping at the look-out point overlooking the marsh and Lake Simcoe before continuing east through the Mulock orchards and on to Vivian.

At the county forest trucks were used to drive the guests through about five miles of the 1,400-acre reforested area under the direction of Fred Holledge, the caretaker. The cars then continued east through the tunnel of trees in the McCormack forest and down to Cedar Beach park at Musselman's Lake for lunch. Going by way of Ringwood, Gormley and Victoria Square the party arrived at Don Alda Farm just at halting time.)

On Saturday evening, July 5, I walked out of the office fully determined not to return till the 14th. I had not been off duty for two years on the 7th of July.

I slipped away to the lakeside where peace and nature soothes, and is deeply interested in instructions to have my mail follow me, but on Monday I received a letter forwarded to the village postoffice. It was an invitation to visit an area I had long wished to see, and I could do up a number of places at once with good guides. Several of the best kept farms in York were to be shown open to the members

THINK BEER WOULD HURT WAR EFFORT

KESWICK WOMEN ARE CONCERNED OVER
APPROACHING VOTE

HEAR ARTICLE READ

The following article from the June issue of the Temperance Advocate was read at a recent meeting of the Keswick Women's Christian Temperance Union and was forwarded to The Era for publication.

"It is mooted in the press that the town of Newmarket is to have a local option vote. Newmarket became a dry town in 1910, eliminating at that time the licenses in four hotels.

"The object of the present movement is to make it possible to have beer-rooms in the town.

"Under ordinary circumstances this would be a matter primarily of local interest, concerning the town itself and its immediate vicinity. As things stand today, however, this is not the case. It directly concerns homes in a much wider area. Moreover, the coming of beer-rooms to Newmarket would tend to undo one of the things the department of defence has sought to secure and is an attack on Canada's efforts to attain war fitness.

"There has been established in the immediate vicinity of Newmarket a training camp. Some thousand young men just 21 years of age are regularly gathered there for military training.

"The department of defence, when it adopted compulsory military training for defence and set up these camps, decreed that they should be without wet canteens. It is reported that very few of these men go elsewhere after beer. The result has been good health, very little trouble with discipline and very creditable results in training.

"The question of beer-rooms in Newmarket cannot, as things stand, be considered apart from the presence of these thousand men just merging into citizenship. The coming of beer-rooms would inevitably bring temptation to these young men. It would result in a considerable number of them learning to drink, with a lessening of efficiency and, in some cases, unfortunate, if not disastrous, personal results.

"The presence of beer-rooms in Newmarket will deeply wound many of the patriotic citizens of the province whose homes have furnished the splendid youths that make up these camps. It will also tend to undo and defeat the purpose of the defence department in making these camps dry. It will so far as it succeeds in increasing the consumption of liquor, weaken Canada's war effort.

"In addition it will inevitably bequeath to the country an entanglement of damaged and less capable manhood for the post-war years.

"Under the Ontario Liquor Control Act, the securing of a petition signed by 25 per cent of the electors does not compel the liquor board to order a vote. Even a vote in favor of beer-rooms does not compel the board to grant authorities unless in its judgment it is desirable to do so. The board has the power to decline for any reason it likes the granting of authorities.

"The Ontario government has declared its desire to aid in the fullest possible degree the war effort of Canada. The government of the province is at present dependent upon liquor for a percentage of its revenue. To relinquish this might occasion temporary embarrassment. This situation, however, does not at all justify the increasing of facilities for the sale of liquor at the present time with the enlargement of consumption, its drain upon financial resources and its inevitable lessening of industrial output and of military fitness.

"Will not the Ontario government, in the interest of Canada and the empire, even if it is reluctant to lessen existing sale, at least in the interest of Canada's war effort and the tremendous issues at stake, withhold its consent to the extension of facilities for sale and the inevitable increased consumption of liquor resulting therefrom?"

Newmarket People Hear Germans Evacuate Jersey

HAVE CLOSE RELATIVES IN GERMAN DOMINATED JERSEY

There are Newmarket people with relatives in territory occupied by Germany. They are Jersey Island people, Mr. and Mrs. Philip LeGresley, Hamilton St.

Mrs. LeGresley has a mother, two sisters, and a brother, who served with the British forces in the last war, in Jersey. Mr. LeGresley has two brothers and a sister in Jersey. A brother was killed in the last war.

Mr. and Mrs. LeGresley came here from Jersey, which lies under the shelter of the French coast, 29 years ago. They have not been back to Jersey in that time, although Mr. LeGresley had visited Canada once before that.

They can communicate with relatives in Jersey at the rate of 20 words for 25 cents, via Geneva, and recently sent a message to their relatives there.

A niece in England, who left Jersey at a moment's notice at the time of the evacuation, recently forwarded to the LeGresleys a letter from her mother.

Mrs. LeGresley's sister, saying that they were all well.

When the niece left for England she had a few hours to pack all that she could take in a suitcase, and then made the journey across the channel in an overcrowded boat.

The LeGresleys, like most of the people of Jersey, speak both French and English. Jersey newspapers which they have in their home give an interesting picture of the island, with its parliament called "the States," various officials called "baillifs," "constables," and "centeniers."

Stories circulate that the herds of Jersey cattle are gone, and that now the Germans, having difficulty in maintaining communications, are evacuating Jersey and the other channel islands, according to Rodney Ecobichon, another Newmarket man with Jersey relatives. Although he was born in Peterborough, Mr. Ecobichon's parents were born in Jersey.

One story that Mr. Ecobichon has heard is of farms being hurriedly sold for as little as $10 by evacuees to neighbors who were staying behind.

Town Humbled By Davis Leather 6-3 In Key Game

TOWN MISSES CHANCE TO GAIN TIE POSITION IN LEAGUE

By BOB BENVILLE
A three-run lead in the first inning practically cinched the verdict for the Davis Leather hardball club at the Stuart Scott park Monday evening.

Their opponents, the Towners, failed to connect in the pinches, and so watched the old ball game drift merrily into the waiting laps of the tanners.

The game was an important one for the Town, as a win would have placed them in a deadlock with their rivals, Davis Leather, for second place.

One very definite fact is that the Town loss could not be attributed to Mickey Smith, their star hurler. Why? Well, if you failed to witness the game, "Smitty" not only pitched well but accounted for all his team's runs by slapping one of Lusted's sizzlers over the centrefield fence, with a mate on base, in the fifth, and scored his team's only accompanying run in the seventh after singling and coming home on Cunningham's double and an error.

A stormy session was on the line in the sixth when players and managers of both teams, inclusive of ump, became heated over a decision on player Gunn of the tanners. Gunn swung mightily at a third strike and missed completely, so did catcher Turan. Town mentor, The ball wended its way to a soldier on the sidelines, who recovered the wandering little sphere and handed it to Turan, who in turn relayed it to first.

Several Town players claimed Gunn out, as the throw beat the runner. But evidently those

EGGS HIT $1.10 AFTER LAST WAR

Oats were 97 cents a bushel in Newmarket and $1 in Toronto. Eggs were reported $1 a dozen in Toronto the same week.

Eggs subsequently went as high as $1.25 a dozen in Toronto, Mr. Cane recalled.

claiming the runner out did not see the actual play of interference. So, as it may, the runner was safe and the game continued normally once more.

Herb "out of bounds" Cain was very disgusted with himself as he struck out three during the game, although preceding his final attempt he waded one over the rightfield wall, but unfortunately it was a definite foul.

Freedom Radio Picture Has Newmarket Preview

A number of citizens, including representatives of the town council, the military camp, the schools, Women's Institute, Red Cross, and the press, were invited by the Strand theatre to attend on Tuesday afternoon a preview of the picture "Underground," which will be at the theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

To say the least, those who attended were gripped by the portrayal of the anti-Nazi movement in Germany, Nazi oppression and ruthlessness, and an exciting story of the German freedom radio. elaborated with the help of pseudo-scientists, about German race purity and superiority will endure for many a century. Not more lovely is the contrasting lie about German racial depravity and brutality.

There is no hope of building a real peace or a better world on such foundations. Truth must predominate in an advancing civilization. It is therefore encouraging to find our Canadian government playing a part in the gigantic job of destroying these pestilential untruths, these spreading weeds which choke and kill democratic and liberal institutions.

The director of public information publishes a booklet called "Canadians All," written by Professor Watson Kirkconnell of McMaster University. This booklet tells us that practically all European nationalities are racial mixtures. "The British Isles show a bewildering racial mixture." "Germany itself is hopelessly mixed." French-Canadians, chiefly from Normandy, Picardy, etc., are said to be closer to the average English Canadians, than English Canadians and Welsh Canadians are to each other.

Incidentally, Mazo de la Roche, one-time Newmarket girl, is spoken of as of French-Canadian origin. "Writing in English, Mazo de la Roche has won international fame in fiction."

The booklet is rightly called a "primer of Canadian national unity." Some of the more interesting paragraphs we quote:

"It is a mistake to imagine, as some people do, that European nationalities are separated by downright differences of race. The idea that people who speak the same language or live under the same government belong to the same race is one of the most dangerous errors that can delude the human brain. To the scientist, race is simply and solely a matter of physical characteristics, such as skull-shape, color of eyes, hair, and skin, texture of hair, stature, and blood-group. Just as we classify our cows as Aberdeens or Guernseys or Holsteins by reason of their bodily types and not because they moo in a certain fashion or inhabit a common pasture-field, so neither language nor political grouping proves anything as to the race of any human being.

"In Europe, in spite of all the languages spoken, there are just three main subspecies of the human race, namely (i) the tall, fair-haired, long-skulled Nordic, (ii) the short, dark, long-skulled Mediterranean, and (iii) the stocky, broad-headed Alpine type. No one type has had a monopoly of genius in creating civilization, for all three have contributed abundantly to the upbuilding of the world. Moreover, every nation in Europe has been a mixture of these types and has been actually enriched by the inter-mixture.

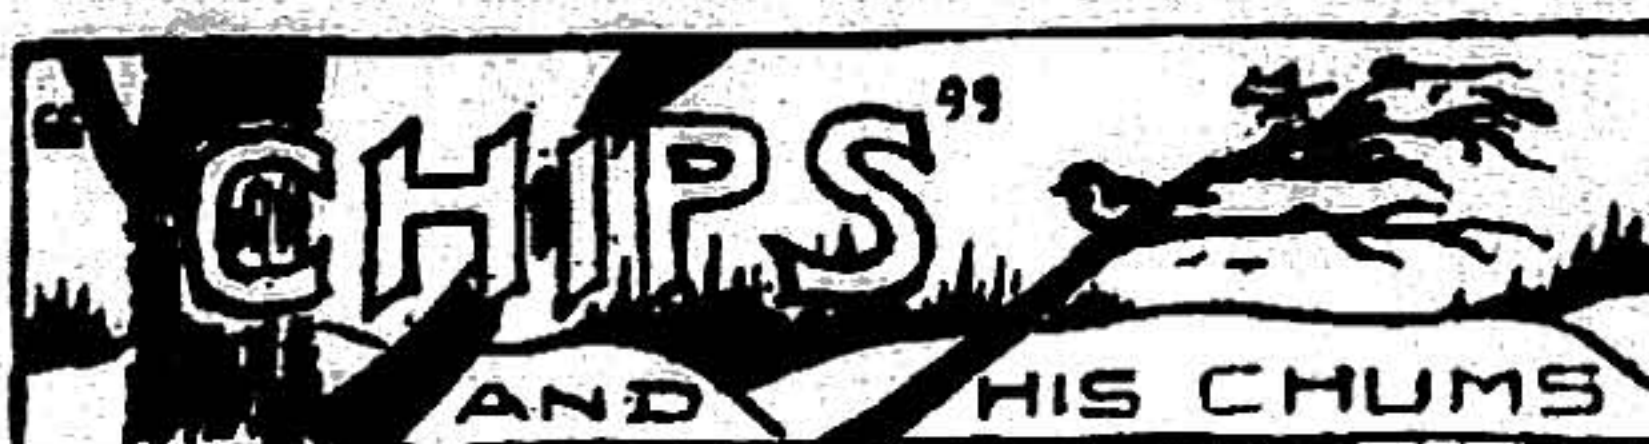

"In France, all three types are found, with the broad-headed Alpine predominating, as in Germany. In Italy, even the casual tourist can distinguish between the swarthy, long-skulled type of the south and the burly, red-haired Alpine types so common in the north. The British Isles show a bewildering racial mixture, for the Southern Irish, the Welsh, the Cornish, and the 'black breed' of the western highlands of Scotland are more closely akin to the Spaniard and the south Italian, the red-headed Highlander is most nearly related to the blond Scandinavian, while the Yorkshireman finds his nearest racial cousins in the Netherlands and northwest Germany.

"Germany itself is hopelessly mixed. Its western provinces are racially far closer to the Netherlands and the Belgians than to the rest of Germany; while the peoples of its eastern provinces pass without any racial frontier into the population of Poland and of the Danubian countries. The racial type in Danzig, in spite of its fierce Nazi sentiment, is statistically indistinguishable from the racial type in Poland. For that matter, more than half of modern Germany once spoke Slavic languages, and in the past thousand years has changed its language but not its racial mixture.

"It follows from all this that there is no such thing as a French race, an Italian race, an Anglo-Saxon race, or a German race—or, for that matter, a Polish race, a Ukrainian race, or a Russian race. We are all mixtures; and to the historian mixtures are a good thing, for they encourage new developments in civilization.

"A very important conclusion for us here in Canada is that none of our national groups from Europe is really alien to the rest of us. All, by nature, are just as kind, just as honest, just as capable of serving and suffering, as any of the others. It is one of the darkest crimes of our modern world that some evil-hearted men have sought to preach that one nationality (they would falsely say 'race') is superior to others and is entitled, because of that superiority, to insult and enslave and exterminate others. It is important that we, even here in Canada, should be careful never to assume that our fellow-Canadians, of any origin, are by nature unworthy of our sympathy, respect and goodwill. A few in all groups, even the English and the French, have been taught by evil propagandists to have hate in their hearts; but the vast majority of all Canadians are honest, loyal folk, ready and willing to contribute much to our united national life."

And then another quotation from the booklet to help us remember that Germans have contributed greatly to our modern civilization: "The main achievements of Germany have been in literature, music and science. The roll in literature includes Lessing, Herder, Goethe, Schiller, Schumann, Hauptmann and Thomas Mann. In the related field of philosophy and religion, we may trace a great line from Reuchlin and Luther down through Leibniz, Kant, Fichte and Hegel. In music, Germany's record is unrivalled in human history, including, as it does, Gluck, Handel, the Bachs, Beethoven, Weber, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Wagner, Brahms, and Richard Strauss, to whom may be added the Austrian German composers, Mozart, Haydn, Schubert, Johann Strauss and Bruckner. In science, their pioneers were Kepler and Leibniz, followed by the von Humboldts, Gauss, Bessel, Jacobi, Leibig, Mitscherlich, Woechler, Scheldien, Schwann, Henle, Virchow, Weber, von Helmholtz, Koch, Roentgen and Fisher. The tragedy of our day is that a nation that has made such gifts to the enrichment and preservation of human life has fallen under the control of a malevolent and soul-destroying conspiracy for world-power."

MR. AND MRS. GOLDFINCH ADMIRE THEMSELVES

By RUTH DINGMAN HERR

"Just imagine—Mrs. Robin is building a second nest, and she's as busy as a bee," chirped Goldie Goldfinch, "and here we are with the eggs for our first nest just laid. It's a funny world."

"So many of our friends regard us as lazy birds," his mate responded, "but this seems to me the ideal time to be looking after eggs. After all, we should be enjoying the long spring, flying about, and not tie ourselves down to home cares until later on when it gets hot."

"Why, just look at that little flock of birds over there," said Goldie. "There must be 20 of them anyway. They look like some kind of Blackbirds. It does seem early to be seeing the Blackbirds flocking together, doesn't it. I suppose, now, we'll be seeing bunches of various kinds of Blackbirds, and Swallows, too, for the next couple of months."

"There goes one of our Night-hawk friends," murmured Mrs. Goldie. "They don't confine their wild booming dives to the evening, do they? I expect they've got their twins almost raised by this time and are beginning to feel carefree again."

"What a babel those young Chevinks over the way are making," commented Goldie lazily, enjoying the sunshine from his perch.

"Well, we've been singing and making quite a racket ourselves," his mate reminded him. "I can't seem to settle down, even though we have a nest of eggs to look after. The sight of you sitting perched on that tall, purple Scotch thistle still dazzles me, I guess. Seriously, though, I don't think there's another bird anywhere that is any prettier than you are."

"That's the way to talk," said Goldie, puffing visibly with pride. "It's too bad that you can't be equally beautiful, but then, perhaps it's all for the best, and you really aren't bad looking you know—quite a respectable dull yellow color, with darker touches."

"It would be nice to be a lovely bright yellow like you, with shiny black trimming—but this way I can at least admire you as much as I want to, and if I were the good-looking one, I wouldn't be able to see and admire myself so well," said Mrs. Goldfinch dreamily.

"That's looking on the bright side, all right," said Goldie, and swooped nearer the nest, which was a few feet from the ground in a small maple tree.

"How do the eggs seem?" he asked earnestly.

"They're fine," replied Mrs. Goldie. "And I do think we did the right thing in not building in that tall thistle that we were considering. It would have been too exposed to all sorts of dangers—particularly cats. No, I think this site is ideal, and our nest couldn't be nicer. It's so finely woven and so firm and strong, made of grasses and vegetable fibres and thin bits of bark, and so nicely lined with plant down. I'm sure the babies, when they are hatched out, will think it's a nice, cosy home."

"We'll have quite a family—five little mouths to feed," said Goldie. "Perhaps it's just as well that we started nesting now, and didn't wait until later, like many of our Goldfinch relatives do."

"Sometimes I would like to wait until quite late in the summer, and then we would be able to have a nest lined with lovely, soft, thistle-down," Mrs. Goldfinch told her mate. "Some of the Goldfinches do it, you know, and I've always wanted to."

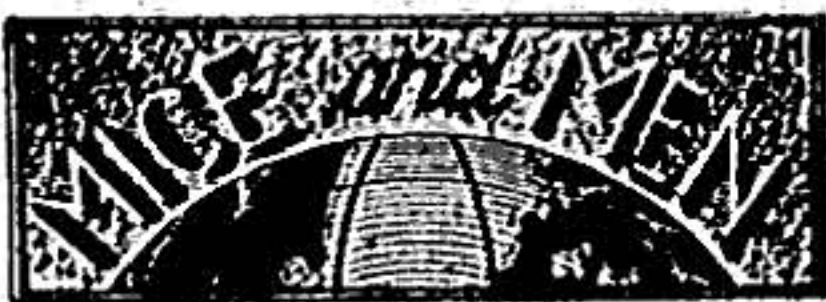

"Oh, I think our nest is quite nice enough as it is," replied Goldie. "And I'm quite proud of those nice, bluish-white eggs. They're so much more delicate and pretty than the many birds' eggs that you see, all disfigured with big, brown spots on them. I'd choose an unspotted, plain egg every time."

"It's a good thing that you're a Goldfinch then, and not a Chickadee or some other bird that has speckled or spotted eggs," laughed his mate. "I'd almost think you were a trifle conceited, from some of the remarks you have made this afternoon."

"We Goldfinches have a right to be conceited," Goldie chirped airily, and flitted gracefully over to the purple thistle again. "We're a decoration wherever we are. Everybody likes to have us in their gardens."

"If only they wouldn't call us wild Canaries," complained Mrs. Goldie. "Who ever heard of a Canary with black wings? It's the Yellow Warblers, who are pale yellow all over, that should be called that, if anybody is."

"Oh well, as long as they look at us and exclaim over us, what do we care," replied the vain Goldie, with a flutter of his golden and black feathers.

The announcement was made on Tuesday that the sale of gasoline and oil to motorists would be prohibited on Sundays, all day, and on week days from 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. This applies to Canadians, and to United States tourists as well. The price of gasoline was also raised one cent a gallon. Citizens were asked to curtail the use of their cars by 50 per cent.

Allied shipping losses during the month of June dropped sharply from the losses of the previous month, the British admiralty announced this week. British allied and neutral shipping losses totalled 79 ships, a decrease of 29 ships over the May figures.

A new fierce offensive by the Nazis, according to the Russians, being held by Soviet forces, with heavy losses on both sides. The Soviet officials were reported to be preparing to leave Moscow and move farther inland.

A mutual aid pact was signed by Britain and the Soviet in Moscow on Saturday. The Russian people are now Britain's allies, Churchill said.

An armistice, according to British terms, was signed this week between Britain and Vichy, after a five-weeks campaign in Syria and the Levant. All Vichy planes in Syria and Lebanon and all ships in their territorial waters were yielded to the Allies.

THROUGH THE EYES OF

J. R. HALE, ORILLIA PACKET AND TIMES.

from springs. It covers 45 acres.

After spending a very pleasant time on the grounds, the party moved on. I had had a number of invitations to visit in Eaton Hall. I have known Mr. P. L. Whytock, the manager, for some years and met him at the Exhibition, the Loyal Winter Fair and the annual meeting of the Royal Winter Fair. And only last winter I met Mr. Whytock in Orillia on his way to Muskoka to visit one of the employees at the summer home, who was ill. He reminded me that he would like me to see Eaton Hall. Mr. Whytock is a Scotsman, and a very active director of the Royal Winter Fair. In Mr. Beer he has a good assistant, from what I heard, Mr. Beer was to be appointed as assistant to Mr. Cockburn, but an industrial firm took him off. But soon after Eaton Hall secured his services. This little visit gave a grand start to a lovely happy day.

From the farm the party turned north and then east to Yonge St. past Sir William Mulock's summer residence, so well known to those who use No. 11 highway. Before reaching this farm a stop was made on the freight of land to look north over the great lowlands towards Bradford. It was a little hazy, but the river at Bradford could be seen over the tree-tops. In that area are reclaimed lands now wonderful vegetable gardens, mostly worked by Europeans of a wide variety. There is a regular league of nations and it is said that if a dispute over a line fence occurs, all the marks of European bitterness break out.

The reclaimed areas on the Holland marsh have been made by drainage. But the system differs from areas of this kind found in other parts of America. The drains which take the water away do not run through the gardens. Along the Holland river ditches were built which keep the water from reaching these low lands. The water does not flood them and then run off. The ditches pick up water and carry it away before it spreads.

Before reaching Sir William Mulock's orchards there is a lovely old natural bush where the trees meet overhead and the road runs through a tunnel of trees. It reminds one of the road running from Muskoka Beach Inn to Bracebridge, just beyond the Inn.

The apple orchard is on both sides of the road and covers 140 acres. The walnuts also are on two sides and cover 40 acres. When Sir William is at home the flag in front of the house flies on the pole. That day it was at the top-mast. I was sorry I could not stop long enough to say good morning. But the cars were making for Vivian, due east, at top speed. Soon after crossing Highway 11, Newmarket was just to the north. Several of my party would have liked to have had a peek, as they had never run in to see the historic town.

For miles along the road the land was sandy. In some parts like the great Sahara. It is a section which would grow pines, and the sooner the better. At Vivian trucks took the party in relays into the York county 1,400-acre reforestation plantation. One truck was delayed and time was passing, so my party did not go into the plantation, so as to let the club members see it and get on their way.

Vivian was quite a little centre at one time by its appearance. On one corner is an old frame building which was a hotel in early days. It is square and still well preserved. On another corner is a brick building which was the store. The front is still there, but it is now a residence. On another corner, is a huge brick residence, apparently occupied by local people. A family of Jews from Toronto were there for the summer. There were also Jews in other quarters nearby. On the fourth corner was a building which was likely the blacksmith shop at one time. The village is, I believe, in the township of Whitechurch.

Then the road southward was made to Musselman's lake for dinner. Everyone had brought a basket and the club all sat together in the little park at the lake. Musselman's lake I judged was a resort for Toronto people. At this point at the lake there is a huge dance hall and a Superior store. In the dance hall there is a refreshment counter, and meals are served.

The beach is controlled there and bathers pay a fee to use the sandy shore where youngsters and older people puddled and swam in the water, which was quite shallow. There are parking areas and ball fields, and lots are sold and cottages built to suit the purchaser. There is not a great deal of shade where the cottages are, and, in fact, some of them are right out in open spaces without a tree. The land is sandy as is all that section. But hundreds of people get out of the hot city and no doubt have a great holiday.

BORN — At Ravenshoe, on July 10, 1891, to Mr. and Mrs. Ben. Linstead, a son.

shade. Somewhere at the lake is a camp of the T. Eaton employees.

We zigzagged southward and finally came to Don-Alda farm, the home of Mrs. Dunlap, who has a good share in a gold mine in northern Ontario. It is the show place in the way of farms in Ontario, in fact in Canada and the States. The party was warmly welcomed in a little speech on arrival by Dr. Jenkins, the manager.

The first stable visited was where the Guernsey cattle were. This stable is ventilated thoroughly, and finished handsomely. Part of the finishings in the stalls are brass, and are polished like brass in a well-kept office building or on a private yacht. There is equipment for changing the air and dispensing with any flies which might steal in. And every device for the comfort of the cattle. The straw is cleaned with a vacuum cleaner, which takes out the dust, and the hides of the cattle are also cleaned in the same way. Some cows were being milked by machinery at the time of the visit.

There are two hundred cattle on the farm, which consists of about 600 acres. The cattle in the barn which was visited are brought in from pasture during the heat of the day, one o'clock till five o'clock. In another stable were some calves, and in still another were tiny calves, only learning what this world was all about. Each one was in a pen, and at one end of the building was a room where they could exercise. The floors were covered with shavings.

The poultry, White Leghorns, have a building for themselves. Only a few birds were in the pens. They had been brought in to be put into condition for the fall exhibitions. There was only one bird to a pen. But the Yorkshire pigs were a sight to behold. Every pig was as clean as a baby just out of the bath. One would think that they were washed several times a day. The pens were cleaner than many houses. There was not a sign of dirt. The floors were tiled and there was a bed of clean first-class straw in each pen. Most of the pigs were lying comfortably in these beds of straw, and each pig had a pen. When flies gather they are soon evicted from the building.

The building for the manure might be taken for a cottage, and few even suspected what it was used for. On the window sills were flower boxes with flowers in full bloom. These boxes were in the windows of all the farm buildings. A complete plant takes care of the milk, and the air inside the rooms is fresh and cool.

Beside these buildings runs the River Don, and in one section the ducks and geese have a lovely life. And with them are some stately white swans. Across the bridge, and up on the hill out of sight are the horse stables. There are light and heavy horses. And in a large building are the farm implements, all safely under cover, and everything required on a farm. In one building was a wagon like one would see years ago for carrying express or trunks. With it was a large automobile of the vintage of about 15 years or more ago. But it was well preserved and apparently in good order. Looking out from this point was an immense hay field all in stock. Just out of sight were about eight or ten men harvesting the hay.

Further along the hillside overlooking the Don River is Mrs. Dunlap's residence, and all round it are lovely gardens and grounds. The landscape is very fine, and the whole place is so homelike and soothing. The natural surroundings have not been spoiled by the changes made for the lawns and shrubbery and flowers. There are two driveways in from the road, one enters the farm. The roads through the farm are like park roads, and one has the feeling that one is in a large park.

In front of the residence at the foot of the sloping lawns is a swimming pool with colored tile bottom and sides. It reminded one of Lake Louise and the Rocky Mountain lakes, as the tile changes the color of the water. Beside the pool are underground dressing-rooms. There were lovely strawberries in one garden, and in a greenhouse nearby were grapevines growing along the ceiling with large clusters of large green and blue grapes hanging on the vines. They looked very tempting. At the rear of the house is a garden with small shrubs and flowers and running out from it is a large stretch of lawn, the size of a field. On the three sides are trees in their natural state which shut it right in. At the side of the garden is a large tea room with comfortable chairs and tables, and from it one looks across the garden and down the lawn. On a small portion of the lawn was a croquet set.

Mrs. Dunlap allowed the visitors to stroll round the gardens and enjoy the grounds as they wished. It was with reluctance that they broke away and left for home. But milking time comes to Jersey farmers as well as Guernsey farmers and the call came to depart.

I would like to say here that the members of the Jersey club of York, and their wives and families, were a particularly fine lot of people. During the day members of my party remarked on the good behavior, and how well the children acted. They all respected the properties they visited and did nothing which would make their hosts regret that they had invited them to their farms. And it was a pleasure to travel with them and to associate with them on their annual outing. And since coming home I have continued to enjoy the day we had together, and I have heard frequent references to the pleasures of the tour from those who accompanied me, and of the fine qualities of the company with us.

I came back by a different route, turning north at the Don-Alda gate and following the highway to Keswick and along the shore to Sutton and on to Beaverton. It is a very good road, paved most of the way. At Sutton I slipped across to Jackson's Point, and while there went out to the Sibbald Memorial church.

It is a lovely spot with a tinge of the Old Land about it. A cedar hedge runs along the roadside, and inside it is quiet, pretty and peaceful. The church is of stone, and is wonderfully well preserved. The whole building is in splendid condition and a kept up. The door was open, and I went in. The inside is very tasteful and in good taste.

In the cemetery are some of the Sibbalds in a plot near the church. The grave of the Rev. Mr. McGonigle, of there. And under a spreading tree was the resting place of Mrs. Leacock. It seemed to be a place she would have chosen herself. Beside her were her two sons, Jim and Dick. She is the mother of Stephen, George, Teddy and Charlie. Sutton was a place she loved, and though she lived in Orillia for years, the little churchyard seems like the natural spot for her to be buried. And the lapping of the water on the shore was appropriate, for Mrs. Leacock had an appreciation of lakes, and lived beside them, and swam and floated in them all her years. I was glad to have the opportunity of visiting her resting-place. I knew her so well for so many years.

The weather was ideal for the day's outing. The sun shone brightly, the air was not too hot, there was a refreshing breeze. The wheat was russet brown, almost ready for harvest, and the straw was standing straight across the fields. In York the moisture has been fair and Mr. W. M. Cockburn said that the wheat will be an average crop for the whole area, and hay about 75 per cent. The hay has been well cured and saved. The wheat suffered from the wheat stem sawfly which is bad in western Canada. The spring crops are patchy and the root crops suffered from lack of rain at the right time. Pasture is none too plentiful, but better than in many sections of Ontario. The agricultural representative and some farmers sprayed 400 or 500 common barberry bushes in the Bogartown district with a chemical weed killer.

At Sharon on the way home a stop was made at the Temple, which is now the York Pioneers' museum, and is full of things of the early days. Some years ago I was made a member of the York Pioneers and have attended an annual meeting there, and have visited the Temple on several occasions. The building is in good repair, and the grounds are kept neatly.

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Era: We read in last week's Era a letter from Mr. P. W. Pearson with a long report, taken from the Globe, by the company in regard to the price paid for the Brading brewery property, but the deal still looks rather fishy.

The government paid nearly five times what the property was assessed for and that assessment the company were willing to go to the court and prove was too high. The assessor also valued the property was worth one-third more than the assessed value.

The Assessment act for Ottawa is the same as Newmarket and most of the sales in Newmarket have been around the assessed value or less. Because the engineers and inspector have said the new plant will cost $1,000,000 has nothing to do with the value of the old plant and because the company are asking permission to expend $126,000 on the old property—we are not told what for but probably for some fixtures that will be taken with them when they go—has nothing to do with the sale price.

POLICE COURT Toronto Motorist Goes To Jail For Drink Driving

"Who do you think you are, a farmer?" I told him I was a police officer and he said, "Oh yes, why aren't you out doing something for your country?" You belong to Hitler's band," Constable William Burke, Sutton, related to Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in Newmarket police court on Tuesday. The officer was giving evidence at the trial of James Diamond, Toronto, who was charged with dangerous driving and driving while intoxicated. Lloyd Kay, Belhaven, testified that at 9 a.m. on July 9, while he was driving east on the road into Sutton, he heard the horn of the car ahead blowing loudly. This car, which was driven by the defendant, pulled out to pass another car and while doing so turned so far out that its four wheels were over the shoulder of the road. When he passed the car the defendant slowed them up considerably. The witness stated that he and the other motorist then passed Mr. Diamond and proceeded to Sutton. When he arrived in town he saw the defendant's car turning a curve on the highway and head for the ditch. The car then swerved out of the ditch. He said he notified Constable Burke, as he did not think a motorist driving in such a manner should be on the highway.

"I tried to stop him," testified Constable Burke. "He kept going along the highway. He turned and on the way back I stopped him."

Questioned by the acting crown attorney, Joseph Vale, as to the actions of the defendant, the officer stated: "When I tried to stop the car he nearly hit me. He was very abusive."

"How did his breath smell?" asked the crown.

"Pretty strong," replied the witness.

"Of what? Onions?" asked the magistrate with a smile.

"No sir, of liquor," was the reply.

According to the opinion of Constable William Hill, Sutton, who was called to the scene, he found Mr. Diamond in no condition to be driving a car. "He was unsteady on his feet, his speech was thick and his breath smelled of liquor," stated the constable.

"I asked him where he was going and he said that he was going to Brechin to see a dog. I asked him what kind of a dog and he said 'just a dog.'"

"How did he act?" the crown asked.

"He was very abusive to the other officer."

"Do you think he was drunk?" asked his worship.

"Yes, I do," was the reply.

Dr. W. J. Laurie, Sutton, who examined Mr. Diamond when he was brought to his office by the police, stated: "From interrogation and observation, he was under the influence of acute alcoholism. He also said that he had a few drinks. He was unsteady on his feet and very loquacious."

In his own defence, James Diamond told his worship that he had had very little sleep that night or the day before.

"I was more tired than drunk," he stated. "I was so tired that I was ready to stagger without any drink. Anyone not knowing me would think I was drunk. I admit having three little glasses of whiskey before leaving Toronto. It is the first time I have driven a car when I've taken a drink."

Asked why he gave the police officer abuse the defendant stated: "I didn't know he was a constable."

He didn't have any uniform on. He could have been anyone."

"On the evidence of the two police officers and the doctor, who say that you were under the influence, I am sending you to jail for ten days on the drunken driving charge," his worship told Mr. Diamond. "Your car will also be impounded for three months and your license to drive will be suspended for three months. On the reckless driving charge you will pay $5 and costs or ten days."

For illegal possession of liquor, Grant Ormiston, Brooklyn, Ontario, was fined $10 and costs.

"On Sunday, June 22, at 2:30 a.m., I came across a car parked at the side of the road near Muselman's Lake," testified Constable Ronald Watt.

"The accused and another man were in the car. I found two cases of beer. All the bottles were empty, except for two which were partially consumed."

"Were the men drinking?" asked his worship.

"Yes, they were," replied the officer.

Constable Ernest Prosser testified that he saw Jack Shropshire, Weston, with a string of bass. As a result, the latter was charged with illegal possession of fish and had to pay $10 and costs.

Constable Prosser told his worship that he had been patrolling Lake Simcoe on June 28, when he came upon the defendant, another man and a boy near Snake Island.

"I asked him if he knew what he was doing and he said that he did," stated the officer.

Pleading guilty to illegal possession of liquor, George A. E. Snelling, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs.

With the exception of Jack E. Hausman, Toronto, who drove his car at 70 miles an hour in East Gwillimbury and was fined $15 and costs by Magistrate Woodliffe, all other motorists answering charges of speeding were fined $8 and costs for going 45 miles an hour.

Robinson Clay Products, Toronto, Robert Farnon, Toronto, Dr. E. Robertson, Collingwood, Francis Perdue, Chatham, T. R. Hogg, Creemore, and Patrick Adamson, Haliburton, were fined by Constable Alex. Ferguson on Yonge St.

C. H. Connell, Guelph, Shamshai Ogden, Toronto, and George Shuttlesworth, Mount Albert, were clocked by Constable Kenneth Mount on Eagle St., Newmarket.

Evidence was given by Chief Constable James Sloss, Newmarket, in the following speeding convictions: Fred D. Sher, Port Colborne, McNamara Construction Co., Leaside, and four Toronto motorists, Mrs. E. Patteniek, Orange Crush Ltd., Reginald Wilson and G. S. Oiler.

For failing to obtain a 1941 operator's permit, John Ham, Stouffville, was fined $10 and costs.

For not appearing in police court to answer charges against them, Magistrate Woodliffe ordered summonses be issued for Charles D. Hay, Toronto, Max Wall, Toronto, and John A. Earle, Toronto, each charged with speeding.

The driver of the Ontario Gas and Oil Ltd., Toronto, who also failed to appear in court to answer charges of entering a stop street (Main and Water Sts., Newmarket) was given the opportunity of pleading guilty and receiving a fine of $1 and costs. If he does not plead guilty the magistrate ordered that a warrant be issued compelling him to appear in court.

SPORTS

By BOB BENVILLE

The military camp lads are resting on the top rung of the hardball ladder, with four wins, no losses. Davis place next with four victories but are burdened with two losses.

"Shorty" Turan's Towners head the polls for third spot with a 50-50 average of three and three.

The Specialty lads are the under dogs at the moment with six straight losses but should place if they take their remaining games. It has been done before.

Tennis Brambles

Said one tennis player to the other: "I do not visit the courts any more, because there is hardly anyone over there to play with."

And so it is that the Newmarket tennis club membership list has decreased very extensively.

In our explorations of the town we have met innumerable sporting young people, independent of church or high school clubs, who should be playing and with a little co-operation the town would possess one of the finest racquet clubs in North York.

Instead of a mere representation of 16 members the list should at least reach 60 or 70. Tournaments could be held and valuable prizes given.

Another suggestion is to have all local independent clubs stage interlocking matches or representatives from each club play in a main town tournament for a special cup. That would not only create interest but plenty of material would be discovered to form a powerful town club to be represented in the district leagues.

In case you have forgotten, the officers are as follows: president, Tom Scott; vice-president, Bea Lyons; secretary, Irene Parks; Tournament chairman, Norm Mathews; membership chairman, Arnold Molyneux; grounds chairman, Charles Boyd.

The local club expect to play hosts to the Aurora racketeers this Friday night and to Stouffville next Wednesday.

Rain interfered with the local tennis club tournament last evening but it is hoped that next week will bring the club members together.

The Aurora Cycling club held their opening race of the year Tuesday night at Aurora on Cousins' half-mile dirt track.

Six riders were on the field to participate in four short events. Two were mile events and two of the half mile variety.

The track was in very poor condition, cut up by horses. It is hoped to carry on with the meets for the Dawson trophy but if riders fail to turn up the meets will be abandoned.

The Newmarket Cycling club is making poor progress insofar as getting interest and enthusiasm from the local boys.

Jack Arlitt, Mickey Smith, Dave Mathewson and Ted Mosley are a few of the lads eager to get going.

Gert Larsen, another prospective member, has joined the air force, so that adds another hole to the club membership list.

Four others haven't as yet decided.

EVERSLEY

Rev. Mr. Atkinson was able to take his three services on Sunday, after his illness. He and Mrs. Atkinson went back to Toronto after the evening service, with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, who were visiting Mrs. Thompson's great-aunt, Miss Elizabeth Tinline.

Mrs. S. McVittie from Toronto is staying with Miss Tinline for the remainder of July.

Miss June Mesley, though confined to the hospital, is making a good recovery from her recent operation for appendicitis.

Walter Gellatly and Farren Cairns, carpenters, have gone north to one of the numerous islands in Lake Temagami to build a summer cottage. They left on July 4 by motor, and went by ferry to the island.

People in this district are thankful for the rains of last week. They saved the situation in many ways. The raspberries at once swelled up and took on color, so that now raspberries and currants of different colors are keeping the pickers happily busy.

Mrs. Ferguson, wife of Prof. Ferguson, is spending a few days at Scots Wha Hae, on the way back from Island Grove.

Mr. John A. A. Ferguson, Mrs. Ferguson and Michael John came to the rescue on Friday and Saturday, giving a helping hand with the work at Scots Wha Hae, extracting honey, spraying potatoes and scuffling the field garden crops.

The following is the complete list of Eversley pupils who have passed their high school entrance exams this season: James Kerswell, Archie Cadden, Ross Boyair, Norman Wade, Fred Ball and Isabel Folliott. Heartiest congratulations are extended to all, and to their efficient teacher, Miss Elizabeth McClure.

At 7 p.m., and will be conducted by Mr. Barnett and Mr. Johnson of Sharon. On Sunday, July 27, the Queensville charge of the United church will have a united service in the Sharon church at 11 a.m. S.T. Pte. Harold Cornish of the Newmarket military camp will conduct the service and preach.

Miss Alice Ramsay of Downsview spent the weekend at home.

NOBLE ARMY OF MARTYRS

By Isabel Inglis Colville

"We've never seen the Martyrs' Shrine at Midland," said friend husband, as we prepared to spend the last day of June looking for something new to us.

"It's high time we saw it," I agreed, "for surely we should hunt out the spots of beauty and interest that are almost at our doorsteps."

"Then why not start at once," said mother, as she cuddled Spec, who said as plainly as a cat could, "What! Going away again? I'm thin as a rail now—what will I be if this keeps up?"

However, after breakfast he decided he had to investigate something he saw in the orchard and went off, so we didn't see his little grey face peering round the corner as we drove off.

The morning was hot, but the feeling of a free day, the scent of new mown hay and the beauty of earth and sky made us feel it was good to be alive.

We had to stop for a little while at a small garage to investigate some internal complaint the car seemed to be developing, and while the man of the house and the mechanic were operating, mother and I watched a fine example of co-operation — the whole family were busy.

The oldest boy—about 12—washed the car windows which had already been washed that morning. He left them a bit streaky, but he was so in earnest about the washing—and what were a few streaks amongst friends?

Another boy was washing the windows of the room where, apparently, they served lunches. A smaller girl and boy were carrying out cases of empty pop bottles to a truck nearby—all were busy and apparently happy.

As we neared Midland we all felt that dinner should be the next thing on the program. We saw one or two pleasant places with lots of trees as we drove into town, but found they only catered to tourists.

"Well, we can try the hotel—I saw signs all along the way saying the food was good," I told the other two hungry ones.

Down the busy main street we drove, finally finding parking space, and found our way into a pleasant, cool dining-room, where we enjoyed a well-cooked meal, nicely served, which made us over, and ready for whatever lay ahead.

As we neared the church and

LADIES ENJOY PICNIC AT LAKE SIMCOE

About 30 members of St. Paul's W.A. enjoyed a most delightful picnic at the summer home of Mrs. F. N. Chandler at Lake Simcoe on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Stewart, a sister of Mrs. Chandler, from Toronto, and Miss Nellie Taylor, her niece, helped Mrs. Chandler entertain, and all who were there declared it was the very nicest picnic of all the delightful picnics the W.A. have enjoyed at her summer home.

The members went by chartered bus early in the afternoon and returned by moonlight. The weather was perfect, not too hot, but not too cool for those who enjoy bathing and swimming. Those who did not go in the water sat in comfortable chairs on the shady lawn by the water and most of the ladies employed their time knitting for the soldiers and airmen and sailors.

The tea-tables were set on the lawn and it was a merry crowd that gathered round to enjoy the out-of-doors meal.

Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Patstone, with their two daughters, left early after tea to visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Harry Collingwood, at Peterboro, returning yesterday.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Word was received by Ralph S. Coupland on Friday that his eldest daughter, Mrs. A. J. Smith (Celia), had undergone an appendix operation at St. Mary's hospital, Kitchener.

what happened when wild beasts were let loose in the coliseum to mangle helpless women and children. To stand in the spot where something happened, seems to give one vision and I could picture the other priests who escaped with their Huron converts, sailing sadly away on the Wye, with many a backward glance at the spot, now forever sacred to the memory of the eight martyred brothers.

In that church one felt the presence of something not of the earth—a something of the spirit, which may forever lie dormant in most of us, but which, when necessity arises, arms the victim of circumstances with a strength not his own. It is well to have shrines.

I almost weakened as I faced those steps myself, but the view of lovely country and the pretty River Wye, repaid the effort, and silently we made our way into the beautiful church which crowns that high summit and memorializes the heroism of the men who suffered martyrdom there at the hands of the Iroquois.

All down the ages there have been martyrs—those who have laid down their lives because of their belief in certain things—beliefs that they would rather die for than surrender.

I suppose we associate martyrs mostly with religion, but there have been martyrs to science, love, patriotism, as well as to religion.

Abraham Lincoln was sacrificed on the altar of his belief that ALL men should be free, irrespective of race or creed.

Many a scientist has sacrificed his life, been a martyr to his belief that certain discoveries of his might mean much to his and future generations.

Our own time has its martyrs—those in concentration camps, victims of a modern inquisition, who because of race, creed, or decency, are tortured on the altar of Hitler's lust for power and omnipotence.

There is one thing that all martyrs have in common—courage—also such an obsession regarding their cause, that they can neither recant nor compromise, and such an enthusiasm that it transcends the horror and fear we all have for torture and violent death.

All this I thought of as we moved slowly about the church of the shrine. The church itself is beautifully built—symmetrically perfect—its chancel and altar, its pictures and windows, and its tomb, portraying the Iroquois with their captive priests, and on the walls is depicted the way of the cross—the martyrdom of eternal love on the altar of an ungrateful and unbelieving world.

The older lands are steeped in the history and traditions of martyrdom where pagan martyred Christian, where Christians of one faith martyred those who could not see eye to eye with them.

But here, in this new land, our traditions do not go back very far and what we have must be treasured. The thought of those priests, far from the homeland, surrounded by hostile and barbaric foes, is bringing martyrdom nearer than dreaming of them.

CHOICE OF TWO STRAND SHOWS

Twenty-three correct answers were sent in for last week's contest. A few were late and a few were wrong. The correct answer was "classified." We thought the problem was rather tricky, but apparently there are some pretty brainy puzzlers around.

From the 23 correct answers the following five were drawn, and win double passes to the Strand theatre for next Tuesday's show ("Tobacco Road," and "Play Girl") or next Thursday's show ("Underground") and "Blonde Inspiration": Mrs. J. Woodcock, Newmarket, Mrs. H. E. Gilroy, Newmarket, Elizabeth Anderson, Aurora, Irene Sedore, Newmarket. Passes may be obtained any evening at the theatre box office, or the night of attending the show.

Five lucky winners of this week's contest will receive double passes for Tuesday, July 29, when "Arise My Love," starring Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland, and "The People vs. Dr. Kildare," starring Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore, will be shown, or for Thursday, July 31, when "The Devil and Miss Jones," starring Jean Arthur, and "The Great Swindle," starring Jack Holt, will be shown.

Answers must reach The Era by 9:30 a.m., D.S.T., on Tuesday morning.

HAVE PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING

A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Christian church at noon on Saturday, when Miss Dorothy Anne Greer, daughter of Mrs. Greer and the late John Greer, became the bride of Mr. Bruce Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Stouffville. Rev. Arthur Greer, brother of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The church was prettily decorated with summer flowers. Clarion Baker was at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, David Greer, was lovely in a gown of white satin and bridal veil, caught with pearls. She carried a bouquet of Better Times roses. Miss Olive Johnson, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of pale blue net over taffeta with fitted bodice, puffed sleeves and full skirt. Her bouquet was pink roses. Mr. Donald Closson of Stouffville was best man.

A reception was held at the parsonage, the bride's mother in a maroon sheer frock with white accessories, and the groom's mother in flowered blue silk with navy accessories, receiving with the bridal couple.

The couple left by motor for Haliburton, the bride wearing a sports suit of blue with matching hat and white accessories. She is a graduate of Victoria College and taught at Albert College.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will live near Stouffville.

Exact Downward Feed Retail Price Movement

As feed stocks are replaced by local dealers farmers will feel the benefit of a $3 a ton reduction in the price of bran, shorts and middlings, arranged between the Dominion government and the milling companies.

One dealer told The Era that he would have to sell present supplies on the basis of what he had paid, particularly as he had been selling on too close a margin anyway, because he felt that previous prices had been out of line and unfair to farmers.

PEPPER AND SALT

When a man who was once a famous, near famous, or just a well-known athlete, reaches middle age, drops his athletics and takes on some signs of his years, he no longer receives the acclaim of sports-loving young men. His athletic past is only a hazy mist and usually remains so until his obituary goes to press.

The sports-minded are too interested in today's heroes to grant the famous oldsters the recognition that is their due. They only notice their thinning hair, their developing figure, what to them is the approach of senile age. Of course, there are exceptions, but the exceptions are few. We remember Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Johnston and Mathewson, Fitzsimmons, Dempsey and Tunney, but these are only a minute percentage of the athletes famous in the golden era of sport.

All this is true in a local sense (Newmarket) as well as in the whole world of athletics. The younger generation here knows little of its sport heroes of years gone by. Back files of The Era will disclose the achievements of many, but we have no patience with back files and it is only when the obituary is written that the fog lifts.

That may have been the case with "Turk" Doyle, whose sudden passing startled Newmarket last week. Turk ran the gamut of sport in his youth and was one of the town's and the district's best all-round athletes. Today's athletes are mostly specialists in only one branch of sport for it is only by specializing on one sport that they can make a living, but sport for sport's sake was more the idea then and Turk tried hockey, track, baseball and what have you. His friends were legion and enemies non-existent.

Movies taken of the world's championship fight between the then young Jack Dempsey and huge Jess Willard were shown in the local theatre last week during the course of a picture describing the advent of radio. From the first long Jack kept up a murderous barrage of rights and lefts to the head of the helpless Willard. It took him less than a few minutes to put the giant to sleep. Those who had never seen Dempsey in action would certainly get a lasting impression of the power he packed in his fists on seeing those movies. This was supposed to be the first fight ever broadcast.

REDEUCE CLERK'S BOND

On recommendation of the town council the finance committee has reduced the fidelity bond on Town Clerk A. C. A. Willis from $10,000 to $5,000. A three-year loss discovery period has also been secured. Previously the discovery period was two years.

A premium saving of $10 has been effected and the bond on Mr. Willis now coincides with that upon William Large, assistant clerk, treasurer and tax collector, and is at the same figure as in other years except last year, when it was raised to $10,000.

LOOK AHEAD A YEAR

BASEBALL DIAMOND GETS TIED UP

Previous to that Mr. Bond had handled the express and Dunham and Strusler were the official agents.

In 1915 there were over 30 delivery horses in town, now in 1941, streamlined days find only three or four left. According to Jess Banbury, veteran liveryman, there were once as many as 60 horses in use daily in town.

Throughout the years "Milt" worked six days a week. Sunday was the only holiday "Milt" received and occasionally he did duty then. Other days in heat, wind, rain and snow he made his regular trips to the C.N.R. station and can name a long list of dozens of engineers, baggagemen, clerks, station agents and travellers who have come and gone.

At first his route averaged six or seven miles a day with countless stops. Then gradually came the competition of motor transports and railway freight began to dwindle, until the last few years he has been averaging only about two miles a day on his route. Nevertheless, it is safe to say that he has travelled nearly 30,000 miles over town streets on express deliveries.

"The business got down to about a third or less of what it once was," Mr. Morris told The Era.

In the 23 years he has used but three horses. His first horse, "Bill," saw service the longest and served his master well. Then came "Min the first," who lasted but a short while, and then his present steed, "Min the second," who is now on the farm. The same express wagon has been in use throughout the whole period but a few years ago it was modernized with rubber motor tires, which is smoother riding and less noisy. During his years of service he provided the horse and wagon and looked after them.

Collecting stamps, coins, postcards and newspaper clippings has been a hobby for many years. At one time his stamps numbered 10,000, with several rare specimens. Now he only keeps a few mostly Canadian, of which he has a fine collection. Sports pictures are his latest fad and he has over 600 different views. Hockey players are his specialty. Always interested in sport, he is the No. 1 rooster for the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team in North York and he knows their history for years back.

"Time marches on" but the familiar figures of "Milt" and his horse and wagon will linger on in the memories of thousands of Aurora people young and old, at home and far away.

Last year, feeling the call of the colors, he joined the Calgary Highlanders and was stationed at Calgary until his recent transfer and move to the east coast.

Labor Shortage Brings Bad Weed Problem

Grappling with the weed menace, largely due to labor shortage, the Whitchurch township council on Saturday issued an appeal to all farmers who are in a position to cut the weeds on the roadway, to immediately get in touch with the road foreman on the beat, or the road superintendent, who would authorize them to do the work, and the council would be willing to pay for the service. Farmers should first consult the authority before going ahead, it was warned.

"If farmers can find time to handle their individual road frontages, a serious weed menace may be abated," said Reeve Toole, who said the problem was purely one of labor shortage.

The question was introduced by Councillor Ed. Logan, who declared that weeds were growing higher than the fences, and that farms once clean were being overrun.

"We have a weed inspector, but in my own division, where we once had no weeds, today chickory overruns some fields," declared Mr. Logan.

He thought it was only a waste of time to run the mower along, cutting a swath on either side of the road, and the rest let go until it is a disgrace.

"It is up to the road foreman," said Councillor Wells. Then Reeve Toole explained that the road foreman and weed inspector were anxious to have the weeds cut, but they cannot get the help.

"It is purely a labor problem, and I suggest that we enlist the help of every farmer where weeds are bad surrounding or fronting his property," said Reeve Toole.

The council gave some consideration to the tax rate, that will be struck at a special meeting later in the month. There is a reduction of half a mill, or about $1,300 in county taxation this year, which members all expressed the hope might be passed on to the taxpayers by way of a half mill reduction in the rate. This is not assured yet, as the budget is not ready, but it is a hope and the aim of the members.

"I think it would be a fine thing and a credit to the council, if we can give this small reduction, in the face of increased costs all along the line," said Reeve Toole.

The meeting was one of the lightest of the year. The clerk was instructed to notify the assessor to assess the lake arrears before the end of August.

Councillor Wells renewed the suggestion that taxes be collected in two instalments, allowing a discount for making the second instalment early. This would reduce bank interest, which would turn back to those ratepayers who were able to pay at the earlier date.

Reeve Toole, who is quite favorable to the idea, said he doubted if the clerical work that would be involved could be readily handled at this time.

The council urged the road superintendent to make all haste in finishing the oiling and dust layer. Mr. Widdifield said they had been held up for material, but it would be completed promptly. Twelve hundred gallons of oil and 25 tons of calcium is required for the job.

In addition to a list of road accounts ordered paid, the following general accounts were passed: J. Crawford, postage, $9; C. W. Williamson, estate, $32.75; Dr. C. W. E. Macpherson, services, $25; Mrs. E. Graves nursing, $10; Newmarket Era, advertising, 62 cents; Aurora, for fighting fire, $40; R. Andres, fighting fire, $40; hospitalization, $214.42.

Other days in heat, wind, rain and snow he made his regular trips to the C.N.R. station and can name a long list of dozens of engineers, baggagemen, clerks, station agents and travellers who have come and gone.

At first his route averaged six or seven miles a day with countless stops. Then gradually came the competition of motor transports and railway freight began to dwindle, until the last few years he has been averaging only about two miles a day on his route. Nevertheless, it is safe to say that he has travelled nearly 30,000 miles over town streets on express deliveries.

"The business got down to about a third or less of what it once was," Mr. Morris told The Era.

In the 23 years he has used but three horses. His first horse, "Bill," saw service the longest and served his master well. Then came "Min the first," who lasted but a short while, and then his present steed, "Min the second," who is now on the farm. The same express wagon has been in use throughout the whole period but a few years ago it was modernized with rubber motor tires, which is smoother riding and less noisy. During his years of service he provided the horse and wagon and looked after them.

Collecting stamps, coins, postcards and newspaper clippings has been a hobby for many years. At one time his stamps numbered 10,000, with several rare specimens. Now he only keeps a few mostly Canadian, of which he has a fine collection. Sports pictures are his latest fad and he has over 600 different views. Hockey players are his specialty. Always interested in sport, he is the No. 1 rooster for the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team in North York and he knows their history for years back.

"Time marches on" but the familiar figures of "Milt" and his horse and wagon will linger on in the memories of thousands of Aurora people young and old, at home and far away.

REDEUCE CLERK'S BOND

On recommendation of the town council the finance committee has reduced the fidelity bond on Town Clerk A. C. A. Willis from $10,000 to $5,000. A three-year loss discovery period has also been secured. Previously the discovery period was two years.

A premium saving of $10 has been effected and the bond on Mr. Willis now coincides with that upon William Large, assistant clerk, treasurer and tax collector, and is at the same figure as in other years except last year, when it was raised to $10,000.

TELEPHONE RESEARCH IMPROVES RECORDING

The soft notes of a distant flute, the roar of the crowd, the rumble of thunder, and terrific crescendos unequalled by any orchestra—all coming from a stage unpeopled by any players whatsoever—were presented recently by Bell Telephone Laboratories in a demonstration of its latest development in sound recording—stereophonic reproduction of "enhanced" music. By this new technique, sound can be reproduced with a clarity, range, and spatial sense hitherto unknown.

For example, the usual motion picture sound track cannot record the full range of a large orchestra. In the stereophonic process a special sound track is provided to "make a note" of the overtones lost and re-introduce them when the record is played back. The listener hears every sound he could have heard when the orchestra itself was playing.

Secondly, the sounds are picked up by three microphones placed near each section of the orchestra, and thus each group of instruments is recorded on a sound track of its own. In reproduction, loudspeakers are located on the stage in the places occupied by the original sections of the orchestra. The listener hears—let us say—the drums from the left, and the flutes from the right, and the other instruments in between. The whole width, breadth, and depth of the orchestra is reproduced.

Finally, before being played to an audience, the stereophonic record is heard by the orchestra conductor. Seated at a control board, he varies the volume or tone of the music as he desires. The volume can be increased by as much as ten times over that of the loudest orchestra. Planissini, on the other hand, are the merest hush. The recording is actually better than the original performance.

He's Going Ahead FAST

He's found out how to keep in trim

THERE'S one handicap to success that no one can afford to ignore... the tired, listless feeling that comes from a sluggish system. Yet thousands who have it could take steps to prevent it.

A Pleasant way to help prevent Sluggish System

Sluggish system may result from a lack of bulk in the diet. Such cases should yield to Post's Bran Flakes. They provide natural bulk to keep food wastes moving—to help prevent sluggishness.

So don't wait until you feel below par. Start now to eat Post's Bran Flakes regularly. They have a crisp, delicious, nut-like flavour. If this does not prevent constipation due to lack of bulk, see a physician.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Out of the west comes a prize story from Camp Nainaimo and the Daffy Duffs. It seems that the umpire scheduled to handle a league fixture failed to show up, with the result that Bert Tunney was pressed into service. Softball is not one of Bert's strong points but he did a good job.

However, with his side-kick, Ace Yanke, at bat, who, as you will recall, likes to question decisions, Bert was on a bit of a spot. The opposing pitcher caught the corner and Ace watched it go by. "Ball three," shouted Bert, "but Ace if one comes like that again I'll have to call it a strike." Ace got a hit to ease the tension.

Schomberg are seeking admission into the rural softball playdowns and if admitted should give a good account of themselves. They have lost four of their championship team of two years ago via the enlistment and war work route but look to have a fair team.

Bob Moodie, who coached the hockey team, has reorganized the team and they have clashed twice with the Toronto police team, winning one and losing one, but raising about $40 for the Red Cross and war victims fund.

Ellison is on the mound and pitching nice ball.

Jon Perry, the former high school athlete, who is with the R.C.A.F., is half way towards being a pilot and is now stationed at Oshawa.

Previous to this Perry was at Victoria, B.C., and pitched his way into the camp championship, tossing every game. There are over 1,000 men stationed at the Quebec centre and there are some pretty fair ball-players scattered around, so Perry's pitching deserves three-star mention.

Hi Brown, power-hitter of the Richmond Hill Roses, is lost to his team, as he has a transport job running between Oro station and Grimsby. In any case, he is going to camp with the Yorks early in August, when the finals should be at their peak.

George Stong turned up the other night to play for Richmond Hill, not in the pitcher's box but in the outfield. Stong will fit in nicely if he is to be available, as Bennett has had the pitching load on his shoulders, with Bob Miller confining his activities mostly to the Unionville team and tournament ball.

O'Dell, who looked good last year, has not been used at all by Manager Ryan.

Morley Cook, brother of Earl, of Buffalo Bisons, who is pitching a nice game for Pine Orchard, took the mound last Thursday for the local softballers. He lost his first start but demonstrated he will "do" very nicely. He has speed, a bit of a drop, good control, but is inclined to spoil his effectiveness by hurrying his pitches a bit too much. Charlie VanZant will probably be able to remedy that.

Manager Simmons, with the play-offs coming up, appears better fixed on the mound than at any time in recent years. "Nuggets" Shora, "Joint" McComb, Cook, Hillis, Bone and Don Glover, the Sharon left-hander, are all ready to toil. Then, in addition, Alex Webster, the best relief hurler in this neck of the woods, will probably hurry home from his job at C.C.M. to be on hand if needed. The Aurora boys might just do the trick if they ever all get together at one time.

Speaking of Shora. On Monday night in the first round of the Toronto senior B playdowns he certainly lost a tough one as the Earl Holmes nine lost to Uniteds 1-0. Shora pitched three-hit ball and struck out six, but one eluded him went for a homer. His own team-mates were only able to garner two hits off Duke, the opposing pitcher.

Weakness of the local team seems to be at third base and centrefield. Buchanan, the club's leading hitter, is a good outfielder but much better in a shorter field than centre. A fiddler like Herb Cain, Laking of Barrie or Wilf White, in this spot would add greatly to the team's defence. Buchanan definitely on his showing cannot be benched.

Lyall Sparks, Frank Dalley, Ducky Davis and Tom Mochrie have all had a while at third. Davis and Dalley are top-ranking performers but they have only played one game each. Either one is badly needed. Mochrie has not been able to regain the form he showed as a hardballer, while the old reliable Sparks is the first to admit he is merely plugging a vacant spot. Sparks is a mighty valuable utility player but not a first-line third-sacker.

Ted Sutton, the Schomberg schoolmaster and former softball star, who scintillated at soccer and hardball with the local high school, is now an officer with the Royal Artillery at Petawawa. Ted left last week after C.O.T.C. training.

Bob Hickson, by the way, became a newlywed last Friday. Old man cupid has certainly been using a longbow on the athletes the past few weeks with such well-known performers as Ray White and Harvey Gibney and Muir Teasdale of the Aurora Cycling club joining the ranks of the benedicts among others.

Percy Lloyd, who needs no introduction, as you know, is serving overseas with the Engineers. He served in the last war too when in his teens. In a recent letter, which we found highly interesting, he tells of dog racing. It seems that Perc and his pal, Dick Hingle, journeyed to Fulham to watch the greyhounds travel, but let Perc tell it.

"The dog track is very much like a horse race track. They parade to the post on leashes. We got there in time to place a bet. We had previously decided to lose as much as six bob apiece. I went to the wicket and had a ten shilling note and two bob in change. I touched the chap in front and asked him, 'What is a good dog to bet on?' He replied 'Easy Money, the number four dog.' I pushed the ten-shilling note to the wicket and asked the girl for 'five on four.' The girl said, 'That's right,' so I walked away realizing I had got in the two-shilling line instead of the one-shilling as intended.

"So we had our ten shillings riding on Easy Money. When I told Dick he said...? We went up to the stand, which was packed, not knowing one dog from the other. A woman next us shouldered her way to Easy Money. 'He's lost!' I kissed our ten shillings goodbye right there. We stood still the numbers went up, when Dick cried, 'That's our number, Perc!' Easy Money had won after all and we had ten shillings on the nose. We cashed in 26 bob and three pence and quit dog-racing for the day. Easy Money was right."

Last Post was sounded at Clymering church cemetery in Sussex, England, for the first North York athlete to be killed in action. We refer to Donald Graham of Richmond Hill, known as "Donnie" all over the county. Graham was 24 and enlisted with the R.A.F. in 1938 in England, using his own funds to get to England. He was a sergeant gunner and was reputed to be able "to shoot a cigarette out of your mouth at 100 paces."

1934 Don won the senior boys' track title at Richmond Hill high school and in the inter-school field days, which boasted such performers as Bruce Stiles, Jack Cox and the Dales boys, he was able to hold his own. He played hockey for Richmond Hill juniors but was too old to play with Aurora when the Hill dropped out, although he had the goods. He played lacrosse with Thornhill juniors, Richmond Hill and also Fergus Thistles. Swimming was also one of his specialties and he was swimming instructor at Camp Ashunyoong one year.

Over in England too he won fame as an athlete, winning the middleweight boxing crown of his camp and firsts and seconds in nine different events at an R.A.F. track meet. He sent all his medals home to his family with whom an exceptional understanding and feeling existed. They were all pals. His death is thought to have been an accident. The true facts will probably be released shortly. No words of ours can do any good, but we do know that wherever sportsmen in North York gather the name of the deceased will be remembered as a symbol of clean sportsmanship, clean living and the courage of Canadian youth. "Never have so many owed so much to so few."

Herb, Cain is reported as going to Quebec for a couple of months, which means he won't be available for hardball in Newmarket or softball here. Herb was having a pretty good year in the Newmarket town league and from all reports was also hitting the golf ball a mile over the Aurora fairways.

Ted Annett, the husky Richmond Hill catcher, informs us that it was Harold Echlin and not himself who crashed into Earl Marshall a few weeks back with disastrous results to the Barrie boy. Knowing Echlin as well as we do, we can definitely put the matter in the 100 per cent accident class.

Hockey takes a bow this week, with rumors that appear to be well founded indicating that junior hockey will drop out of the picture at Newmarket. It is expected that the Redmen will be in the hunt for an intermediate title, with the camp supplying plenty of high-class material. In any case, Carr, Bone, Myers, Gibson and perhaps others were finished in the age series. If this is the case a bunch of junior team should be available here. The old Aurora-Newmarket combination is pretty hard to cope with, as history bears out. Time, however, will tell the true story.

Charlie Smith is again indicating that when it comes to handling young horses he is in a class by himself. This time it's another Giddings horse, Ten to Ace, that C.W. has been bringing to the front in an Undisturbed. Maybe next year will give the Aurora boy the mount on a king's plate winner which he so narrowly missed last May.

Paramount is making ambitious plans to produce "The Forest Rangers," the story of courageous forest fire fighters, as a technicolor outdoor epic, comparable in scope to Cecil B. De Mille's "North West Mounted Police." Tentative casting selections include Madeleine Carroll, Paulette Goddard, Fred MacMurray and Robert Preston. All with the exception of MacMurray appeared in the De Mille epic.

Gene Byrne's "Reglar Fellers" will be the next comic strip to go on celluloid. The cast will include some of "Our Gang" comedies' cast.

Spencer Tracy will probably win another Academy Award if all the stories that one hears about his work in Metro's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" turn out to be true. Judging Mr. Tracy by past performances, we are inclined to believe these rumors.

Anna Neagle's next picture for R.K.O. will be a melodrama made in Canada and England, dealing with the North Atlantic patrol and the British secret service. Miss Neagle will leave for England with Producer Herbert Wilcox, after a tour of Canada.

A one-man film, with Leslie Howard at one and the same time producer, director and star, a film with great appeal anywhere save in Nazi Germany, is "Pimpernel Smith." Shown recently to the London press, it went over with a bang and one commentator sums it up as follows: "An excellent picture, which is grand entertainment. Very topical, with plenty of leg-pulling at the expense of the Nazis."

Bette Davis takes a holiday from the type of roles that won her the Academy Award in the past, to take a film at comedy. She is to be seen soon with James Cagney in a role which has, in the past, made him very popular. "The Bride Came C.O.D." teams these top stars and has many laughs and humorous situations.

Soviet propaganda films are booming south of the border since the Nazi-Soviet honeymoon came to an end some three weeks ago. However, this does not change the status of these pictures, banned since the signing of the Berlin-Moscow pact by the Ontario board of censors. The province of Quebec was the first to place a ban on Soviet films, largely because of the strong Roman Catholic influence.

Last week we mentioned a British film entitled "Five Men." This picture may be shown in Canada under the sponsorship of the British Red Cross, with a good portion of the receipts going for war relief. No decision is likely to be made until the middle of August, when the film is expected in Canada.

Sergeant York himself, World War hero, who captured 132 German soldiers single-handedly, arrived in New York the other day for the world premiere of "Sergeant York," the picture dealing with his exploits, starring Gary Cooper. He was given a civic reception, wine and dined at functions which were scheduled to include many celebrities and notables, including Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

By no means the least valuable weapons used by Britain's fighting forces in waging the battle of Britain is the motion picture. A survey taken recently shows the army is far ahead of both the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force in its use of the screen for instruction purposes. Over 60 short films have been produced. These not only deal with, for instance, the use of the machine gun, but cover a wide ground, including the behavior of the military on farm lands and over fields of growing crops.

The Theatre Holding Corporation, which operates the Strand, was the first and is still the only one to offer a reduction to the men in uniform. It is of interest to note that no other chain or independent theatre group has taken this step. At a conference held in New York on July 7, it was announced that Warner theatres will inaugurate a policy to reduce admission prices for service men. (This company does not operate any theatres in Canada). No doubt other American circuit and independent theatres will not be as slow to follow suit.

Nothing New

"In New York," he said, "they have a company that does nothing but answer phone calls for other people."

"I've been doing that for years myself," replied the man with three pretty daughters.

His Good Deed

A naval officer fell overboard. He was rescued by a deck hand. The officer asked how he could reward him.

KESWICK
Blind Musicians Heard
At Garden Party

Last Sunday's services in the United church were attended by the usual large crowd. In the morning Rev. Gordon Lapp, the minister, preached. The guest soloist at the morning service was Frank Irwin of St. Clair Ave. United church choir, Toronto, who rendered very effectively that beautiful number, "Thanks be to God." At the evening service Rev. Chas. A. McLaren of St. George's United church, Toronto, was the preacher, preaching from the sermon subject, "Our Investments." Mr. Irwin again singing.

Services next Sunday will be in the charge of the minister, Rev. Gordon Lapp.

The garden party, under the auspices of the W.A., was a splendid success, being favored with a beautiful day. Early in the afternoon the crowd began to gather. Promptly at 5 p.m. the supper began.

During the supper hour music was supplied by the Jackson orchestra, which was very fine and much appreciated.

At 8 p.m. the concert program began. Of very special mention on this program were the Jackson orchestra; Miss Betty Barron, soloist, of Toronto Westminster Central church; Mrs. Farrow, pianist, St. John's, N.B.; Miss Helen Self, A.T.C.M., lyric soprano, accompanied by Donald Westbrook, A.T.C.M. Miss Self and Mr. Westbrook are both totally blind.

Last, but not least, and a great enjoyment for the kiddies and others was the old-fashioned Punch and Judy show by Mr. Clarke, ventriloquist.

The large quantity of food donated for the supper included 110 pies, 50 cakes, 30 dozen tarts, and some 40 loaves of bread. In addition, milk, cream, vegetables, pickles and salads were donated, which was in all a very fine tribute to the faithfulness of the ladies of the church.

MAPLE HILL
CHILDREN TAKE PART IN QUARTERLY SERVICE

On Sunday morning the quarterly service was held in the Sunday-school of Maple Hill Baptist church, with most of the children taking part in solos, duets and memory verses. Miss Blanche Scott and Bernice, former members of the Sunday-school, also sang a nice duet. The pastor gave an interesting message from the picture of Christ knocking at the door.

Rev. John Greening, Sanger-tien, New York, also gave a short talk. On Sunday evening Mr. Greening gave a powerful message from I Peter 1: 16, "Be ye holy, for I am holy." Mrs. Greening sang a nice solo.

There was a good attendance at the Dorcas meeting at Mrs. Roy Arnold's last week. The ladies succeeded in getting the quilt off and enjoyed the fellowship together.

The prayer meeting at the home of Melville Wright was also well attended. Rev. L. R. Coupland of Newmarket gave the message. The Misses Sherman of Toronto sang a nice duet, and Miss Martin of Newmarket sang a solo. Both were much enjoyed. There was a wonderful spirit of prayer present.

It was moved that members of the family on active service, Kenneth Morton, Milton Morton and two sons of Ira Morton of Mount Albert, should be remembered by letter.

Rev. Richard Morton of Newcastle, Rev. Gordon Lapp and William Marritt addressed the gathering in well-chosen remarks.

The Morton connections of the family are direct descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Morton. The Marritt connections are descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Marritt. The family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Morton is still unbroken, six sons and one daughter, who were all in attendance, which is rather unusual for so large a family.
